If any attendee finds themselves in a situation where they feel unsafe or they become aware of another attendee violating this policy, they should immediately locate the nearest security member or IGN staff member so that the matter can be handled immediately.

Dress Code

We celebrate the creativity of our audience and encourage attendees to cosplay whomever they wish—regardless of size, gender, age, religion, shape, color, or even species. Have fun with it!

We ask that you follow the guidelines below and please keep in mind that IGN Live is an all-ages event.

- Shoes are required at all times. Cosplaying a character that's barefoot? Please check out online tutorials on how to make "invisible shoes."
- Costumes and clothing should not expose the body in such a way as to be deemed indecent exposure in Los Angeles, California. Private parts must be covered in an opaque material that will not slip or have gaps.
- Males wearing tight-fitting costumes are required to wear a dance belt.
- Costumes must not obstruct or impede the flow of traffic or entryways. If the costume cannot fit through a standard doorway, it may not be allowed at the event.
- Attendees with bulky costumes, costumes that obscure the vision, or costumes with large extensions such as wings or spikes, should have a designated "handler," to assist them through the hallways and crowds.
- Functioning wheels cannot be used as part of a costume or prop (i.e. anything that you might ride, push, or pull).
- No costumes may be realistic depictions of American law enforcement, current American military uniforms, first responders, emergency medical personnel, or any official government agent. "Vintage," historical, any non-current uniforms, and any military or police-style costumes may be addressed at IGN's discretion (i.e., Resident Evil, Metal Gear Solid, etc.)

- Hate symbols of any kind are not permitted. It is within IGN's sole discretion whether an attendee's clothing or prop contains a hate symbol.
